

Church Consultant

As most of you know, leaders from the church recently spent a weekend working with Tom Bandy, a Church Consultant.

We discussed the need for Trillium United to determine our bedrock beliefs, core values, forward looking vision and future mission. We began meeting later in April to try to determine our core values and bedrock beliefs. We realized that this would be a huge undertaking. This process has begun with one small group, but everyone in the church must have input. This process will teach us about ourselves and is expected to last two to three years.

We will continue to set the groundwork needed and will organize small groups to find out your opinions and thoughts and to hear your input. I strongly encourage everyone to show that Trillium United is an important part of your life by being an active participant in this process. Please see any member of the Church Council or myself if you have any questions.
